

Information for Quiz 1

Here is the information I said I was going to send you. I've also posted it on D2L and the course website under class handouts. I also posted the outline and link for today's video, The Water Carriers on D2L.

So far this semester we've covered these major topics, either in class, through the readings, or both:

- Anthropology
- Medical anthropology
- Adaptation
- Medical ecology
- Skin color
- High altitude
- Evolutionary medicine
- Malaria
- Sickle cell
- Disability
- Environment
- Ecosystem
- Carrying Capacity
- Resilience
- Arctic adaptation

Rather than just memorizing definitions of these terms I'm more concerned that you understand and appreciate the significance of these concepts and how they may be interrelated.

- So the quiz Thursday will be short answer format and so much fun!
- To make it even more exciting you can bring one 8+1/2 by 11 sheet of paper with anything in the way of information you would like. It must be something which you have created, not just printed from a website.
- This does not mean open book or open notes – only what you have written on your piece of paper.

Hopefully this will encourage you to think more about what is really important rather than looking at the material strictly in terms of rote memorization. Think and write wisely! See you Thursday!
