

ENGL368F Final Exam Paper, DUE BY 10 A.M. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20 (12/20).

PLEASE READ THE INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY. SUBMIT OUR EXAM AS AN EMAIL ATTACHMENT. LATE PAPERS WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED BECAUSE COURSE GRADES MUST BE TURNED IN WITHIN 48 HOURS.

Remember to include the Honor Pledge on your exam: “I pledge on my honor that I have not given or received any unauthorized assistance on this examination/assignment.” Your exam will not be accepted without it.

CHOOSE ONE (1) OF THE FOLLOWING TOPICS AS THE BASIS FOR AN ESSAY OF SEVEN (7) TO TWELVE (12) TYPED, DOUBLE-SPACED PAGES. Use evidence from at least five (5) texts from the course to support your argument. At least four (4) of the authors must be ones we will have read since the midterm. Bear in mind that depth will matter far more than breadth in your discussion. I discourage you from using any secondary texts in your answer, but be sure to cite them accurately if you do. Support your argument with specific evidence from the texts. Do not fill a lot of space with quotations. Longer quotations should be cited by giving the first and last few words, separated by an ellipsis (...), as well as by page numbers.

1. Discuss the ways in which the authors are rhetorically positioned as “strangers in a strange land” to enable them to comment on slavery, and/or the slave trade, and/or racial discrimination.
2. Discuss the ways that the representations &/or voices of women are used to comment on slavery, and/or the slave trade, and/or racial discrimination. You may consider women of European as well as African descent.
